DOUGLAS A. ROTH, M.D.

A MOST CUTTING - EDGE PLASTIC SURGEON

Alas, there comes a time when the Botox, lasers, and other topical treatments no longer do the trick. That is when many go to see board-certified cosmetic surgeon Dr. Douglas A. Roth of the Mount Kisco Medical Group. New York magazine featured Dr. Roth as one of the area's "sharpest young talents" in its "Best Beauty Docs" issue

(October 6, 2003) -- Yes, he also injects Botox and Restylane, but he points out, "less invasive means results that are not as long lasting." He adds, "If you want to turn the clock back 10 years, you need to consider a surgical facelift." Most of his patients start with eyelid surgery, usually at around age 45; they go in to have facelifts at around age 50. Liposuction and tummy tucks are also popular procedures. -- Dr. Roth graduated from the New York University School of Medicine, then he spent five years as a general surgery resident at NYU Medical Center and completed a two-year stint as a plastic surgery resident and one-year microsurgery fellowship at the Institute of Reconstructive Plastic Surgery at New York University Medical Center.
